How much does it cost to use the EduRisk learning programs?

The entire EduRisk course catalog is available to UE members at no additional cost, regardless of how many learners will be completing training.

Is there a limit to the number of learners that can take a course?

There is no limit to the number of learners at your institution (employees, volunteers, or students) who can take our courses. We collaborate with institutions with learner populations ranging from several hundred to several thousand. About UE's Learning Programs

Are there non-English versions of the online courses?

Our Workplace Harassment: Fundamentals (Prevención de Acoso en el Lugar de Trabajo) is currently available in Spanish for higher ed and K-12 employees. No other non-English versions of our courses are offered at this time.

Are the courses accessible to persons with disabilities?

Yes. All of our courses are compliant with Section 508 of the Rehabilitation Act and Level AA of the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG 2.0). Courses have transcripts for audio narration, alternative text for images, focus indicators when navigating with a keyboard, closed captioning for videos, and the ability to bypass complex interactions to a read-only version. Compatibility was tested using JAWS.

Details regarding website accessibility are available from our site vendor:

How long will it take a typical learner to complete the course and receive credit?

Most of our online courses can be completed in one hour or less. Course duration is indicated in the course description featured on the course homepage as well as in our course catalog. A Time in seat report is also available to training administrators providing details on how long each learner spends in the course.

Can learners stop in the middle of a course and later resume where they left off?

Yes. Our courses contain bookmarking tools that allow a learner to exit and later resume the course from the last page they visited.

Will learners be able to print a certificate of completion?

Yes, learners will receive a copy of their certificate via email once they complete their training. The certificates are also accessible within the Learning Portal to both the learner and administrators.

The Training Administrator

What is the role of the training administrator?

Training administrators are responsible for rolling out learning programs to selected faculty, staff, or students at their institution. This includes creating a learning path for learners and providing instructions on how to access training. Training Administrators also have the ability to edit learner accounts and view summary reports.

Since they have access to confidential information, training administrators should hold positions of trust in their institution.

How are training administrators appointed?

Training administrators are appointed as part of the roll-out process when you submit your training plan. Additional administrators may be appointed after the initial roll-out; however, their accounts need to be updated by United Educators' staff. A form to request additional administrators is available in our Training Administrator Community within the Learning Portal.

How many training administrators can my institution have?

United Educators encourages member institutions to select as many training administrators as are necessary to roll out learning programs, manage learners, and run reports.

Can the system email me when a learner completes a course?

No, the system cannot notify training administrators of learner completions; however, as learners receive a notification when they complete a course, you may request that learners forward you that email.

Completion reports are also available for tracking completions at a larger scale.

Can I have learners retake courses annually or on a recurring interval?

Yes, course completions remain in place for 90 days after a learner finishes the training. During this time, the course can be accessed for review purposes. After 90 days, their completion is archived in their records and the course becomes available to retake for a new completion credit.

Can we setup access so that courses are only available during an allotted timeframe?

No. All start dates and deadlines are the responsibility of the institution to track and enforce.

Additional Support

Who can I contact for help with adding new learners, resetting user passwords, and generating completion reports?

Once we have configured your learning portal and learning paths, you will be provided with contact information for a technical consultant to assist you with the administration functions of the Learning Portal.

Where do I send learners who are having technical issues with the site or courses?

Our Support Portal offers self-help articles for learners on a myriad of commonly encountered issues and how to resolve them. For learners needing additional support, contact information for our 24/7 help desk can be found at the bottom of all articles. "Support Portal" links can be found at the bottom of all menu pages within the Learning Portal, including the login and registration pages.

Will my learners receive emails from United Educators?

Learners may receive automated emails from the Learning Portal with their login credentials. Learners will also receive a confirmation email with their completion certificate once they have completed a course.

A course evaluation is also sent out each time a learner* completes a course. This feedback helps us to improve our course offerings. While completing the evaluation is optional, one reminder email will be sent if it is not completed within seven days.

In addition, a 90-day follow-up survey evaluation is sent to learners for each completed course to help determine the course impact. This survey also has a seven-day reminder email.

United Educators will not share or sell learners' information or email addresses for any reason other than providing support for learners. This is explained fully in our website Privacy Policy.

K-12 students will not receive post-course surveys.*

Bulk Upload

Is there a limit to the number of individuals I can include in a bulk upload?

There is no limit to the number of learners you may enroll using bulk upload. Imports larger than 10,000 learners may be split between multiple days.

Is there a minimum number of user accounts required in order to process a bulk upload of accounts?

Due to the level of effort required by our administrators to process bulk uploads, we request that upload files contain a minimum of 15 user accounts.

How much notice does UE need prior to performing an upload?

Uploads are performed on a first-come first-serve basis. We recommend submitting your completed upload template and requesting your upload date at least three business days in advance.

You will then be contacted and notified of the upload schedule.

Can we customize the automated welcome email with our institution's information?

No, the system generated emails cannot be customized. You will need to send a communication to your learners with the details of your training requirements regardless of the registration approach you select.

How do we register learners who do not have an email address?

Usernames must be in email format; therefore, we recommend using a personal email if the learner does not have an institution issued email address. Services such as Gmail offer free email accounts.

If personal emails are not available, fake email addresses will need to be assigned to those learners. Learner accounts without valid email addresses must be created by Bulk Upload and have a preset password. Your institution is responsible for coordinating the training efforts for those learners.
